

Jenilee Harrison (biography)

Not long ago, Jenilee Harrison modestly pointed out to a major national magazine that she had "a nice little career." The author of the article agreed that while Jenilee's career may be nice, "little" is a gross understatement.

Born in Southern California, Jenilee grew up in an energetic household where the children were encouraged to be active. While in high school, Jenilee became extremely interested in maintaining a healthy lifestyle and staying fit after she was dumped by her boyfriend, who opted to go out with a cheerleader instead. Jenilee decided that she would show him, by losing 13 pounds and entering the Miss Granada Hills beauty pageant. She was first runner-up in that contest, and went on to win several more titles, including Miss San Fernando Valley and Miss Young America. Jenilee eventually became a cheerleader, too – for the Los Angeles Rams, while attending the University of Southern California. From there she parlayed her career into show business history.

*Jenilee starred in the hit sitcom Three's Company, as Cindy Snow – Jack and Janet's new roommate after Chrissy (played by Suzanne Somers) moved out. She played Jamie Ewing Barnes – J.R.'s cousin – on the hit nighttime soap, Dallas. Among her numerous television appearances are Chips, Simon & Simon, Mickey Spillane's Mike Hammer, Murder She Wrote, and That '70s Show.*

*Although she is a television veteran, Jenilee is no stranger to the big screen, either. She played opposite James Garner in Tank, and Tony Curtis in Prime Target. Jenilee's latest film endeavor is a starring role in the acclaimed picture The Redemption.*

Today, Jenilee helps others to lead healthy, fulfilling lives through her work in the direct merchandising market. A dynamic speaker, Jenilee was recently awarded with the title of Best Celebrity Infomercial Host. She has written and produced her own shows, and even developed through Wall Street her own Cosmetic Company. She is currently working on a series of reality shows, which she is starring in as well as producing.

In addition, Jenilee is now producing a television series with a major production team which will be on air this next fall.

For relaxation and her passion, an animal-loving Jenilee likes to spend time on her farm with her beloved animals which includes horses, a Minature Donkey named Breanna, goats and chickens and her beloved breed, the Toy Fox Terrier. She has represented the American Toy Fox Terrier Club as it's National Placement Coordinator for Rescue Placement working long hours to place numerous dogs throughout the country. Her endless devotion of animals has now lead Jenilee to being involved in further animal oriented business ventures/adventures, including her involvement with Equirace, a leading forerunner in the Thoroughbred Horse Race business of which she is an active and excited participant.
